

Short-term workplace mobility, without the paperwork

When an employee comes back from surgery or breaks a foot, we deliver a scooter or wheelchair to the worksite and invoice the employer. No prescription, no insurance, nothing in a medical file.

WHY THIS ISN'T A MEDICAL PURCHASE

Hospitality rental, not DME. We rent equipment the way a rental-car company rents cars.

No documentation of need. Nothing to collect, nothing to store, nothing that lands in a medical file.

Employer-invoiced. Net terms and PO numbers are fine. The employee never has to front it.

Short-term by design. Weeks, not years -- the gap between an injury and being back to normal.

GETTING US SET UP AS A VENDOR

1. Ask and we'll send a W-9 and a certificate of insurance the same day.
2. Tell us your PO or invoicing requirements -- we'll match them.
3. Then it's one phone call when somebody actually needs equipment.

DO IT BEFORE YOU NEED IT

Vendor setup is the part that takes a week; the delivery takes an afternoon. Getting us in the system while nothing is urgent is the whole point of this sheet.

WHAT IT COSTS YOUR COMPANY

Nothing -- and there's no commission either. We don't pay referral fees to anyone, in any program, so there's no contract, no code to track and nothing to reconcile. That also means nothing for compliance to review and nothing to disclose. We bill the customer directly.

TYPICAL SITUATIONS

- Return-to-work after a knee or hip replacement
- A non-weight-bearing period after a foot or ankle injury
- Temporary accommodation while a permanent one is being sorted out
- A large site where the distance itself is the problem

One call and it leaves your desk
